What do you do?

I've held a variety of roles in my time at ATG but my primary focus has always been on building and scaling large teams. My current focus is with the Aim Higher Training program (12-week training program on business and consulting essentials).

What was your career prior to ATG?

I joke that I was fortunate enough to graduate in 2009, during The Great Recession. I didn't know exactly what I wanted to do so I found myself working part-time in retail and part-time as a nanny. My first actual job was working in the dried dairy and manufacturing industry where my primary responsibilities were office administration and general support for the trading team.

Why did you choose to pursue a career in technology?

I didn't so much pursue a career in technology as I sort of stumbled upon it. I was introduced to Tom Stergios and Holly Colbert and quickly scrambled to learn what ATG, Q2C, and a whole other slew of acronyms were! I was more excited about the opportunity to work for a company that had a collaborative culture and where I felt like I could make a difference.

What advice would you give yourself starting your career?

Believe in yourself. Your education and experiences are the foundations of your future. Surround yourself with loving, value-driven people. Mentor and be mentored - the more you give, the more you get. It is okay to say no - to toxicity, overwhelm and when appropriate forgo good so there is room for the great. Be patient, forgiving to yourself and others and open to new opportunities - you can be an amazing mother, wife and successful professional in a small town.
